The traveller’s pact

A simple agreement with yourself. Cross out anything that doesn’t fit. This is your trip, after all.

My intention

I want to make room for travel in a way that fits my life. I will prepare properly, spend within my means and stay curious about the places and people I meet.

I will ask for help when I need it. I can change my plans, come home early or decide that a different trip suits me better. None of that cancels the experience.

I don’t need to impress anyone with the distance, difficulty or price of my journey. I want to enjoy it and return with something worth remembering.

What I want this trip to mean to me

My first practical commitment
